

Perceived Greatest Challenge

I expect my greatest challenge to be described by the “Get Your Hands Dirty” subsection. Most of my learning and studying in the past has been passive. I would be asked to take in information and reproduce it without much hands on experience. I predict this to be my greatest challenge because it is the one that I have the least experience with. I fully intend to give this course my all, but this will be a new habit to develop. I do believe that I will do fine in learning this skill, but it will require attention and effort to overcome.
